

Wholesale restaurant favourites with an ethical twist

Hand Sourced is a one-of-a-kind, grass-roots level supplier that delivers authentic rare, endangered, and heritage lines of poultry, meat, and fully wild harvested game directly from farmers and harvesters. We are committed to small, boutique Australian producers who breed, raise and process on farm; and maintain chemical free chains from conception to finished product. Our wild game is grazed on natural bushland; harvested at night, and ethically processed. ALL our animals are chemical and synthetic feed free, live active, outdoor lives, and are processed using air chilling and hand finishing techniques. Chemicals and chlorine are not permitted in any of our affiliated abattoirs. We return 100% of the costs to the producer and currently support 15 small family farms across Australia.

Natural breeding cycles.

The "big deal" about on-farm poultry breeding is that most Aussie farms no longer join (breed) on their own land, electing instead to buy young to raise and sell. The Australian farming system is supported by large, intensive factory farming corporations that house parent breeding stock in large indoor sheds and cultivate to sell young livestock and day-old poultry to small scale farms that then grow and label as 'free range,' 'organic,' 'regeneratively farmed' or 'pasture raised'. The purchase of those animals can still support large-scale production of intensively bred stock. You need to consider the breeds, and where the breeding occurs, to support an ethical change.

We offer an alternative: farmers who have spent years working with genetics, and breed progeny on farm to develop full blood produce.

Led by sole trader, Shirley Haring, Hand Sourced operates in complete transparency, with an unwavering focus on the farmers with whom we collaborate, and we take our responsibility to supply premium quality produce seriously. No chemicals, hormones, additives, or nasties. Our small family-owned business has been recognised by ABC Landline, Australian Food Sovereignty, AHA, and Telstra Business for its contribution to ethical food supply. In 2024, we moved our cold stores to Sydney to help our rural based small-scale producers reduce food miles.

Heritage Breed Poultry

Preserving Genetics: Heirlooms are traditional varieties of fruit and vegetables that are not always readily available, such as beefsteak tomatoes and kipfler potatoes. These are traditional plant varieties that were popular prior to industrial-scale farming. You would have discovered them in your grandparents' gardens.

Heritage breeds are the livestock equivalent of heirloom vegetables, - the type of meat and poultry that your grandparents might have raised. Heritage breeds grow longer, live better, natural lives without crossbreeding genetic problems. And - Heritage breeds taste better.

All birds are processed, hand finished, and hand packed on farms without the use of bleach or chemicals, and labelled by the farm on which they are grown.

"This is a magnificent chicken.

I come from the Bresse region in France and it is like our Poulet de Bresse.

From the minute I took it out of the packet I knew the smell was like home. After a few minutes of cooking we knew we had something special."

Jacques Reymond

- Small family farms
- Ethically managed, regeneratively farmed
- Award winning
- Hand processed, finished and packed on farm.

Chicken

Almost all small farm and meat chickens in Australia grow Cobb/Ross breeds known as 'white broilers' (with an 'r'). White broiler chickens, including organic, are slaughtered at a young age and rarely live past 6 weeks.

We stock only heritage/rare breed chicken. It's a pricier product because it's not commercially altered for the meat market and is allowed to grow for three times as long as conventional poultry. We prefer natural heritage birds that thrive outside in Australian conditions and live a long, natural life.

They look, cook, and taste completely different.
